On Opposite Side of Front U. N. Columns Move Cautiously

LACK OF OPPOSITION

Mystified As They Register Gains Up To Four Miles

By Irving R. Levine
(U. N. S. War Correspondent)

SEOUL, Nov. 17.—(INS)—American troops, battling Chinese Red forces in temperatures that dipped to 22 below zero, neared a point only 20 miles below Manchuria's border today in a drive to seal off Korea's northeast corner.

On the opposite side of the jagged 250-mile front that slants across North Korea, other United Nations columns pressed cautiously forward up the western seaboard to within 55 miles of the Manchurian frontier.

These Allied units still experienced a mystifying lack of Communist opposition up to Friday morning after registering gains ranging to four miles Thursday.

But in the central sector strong Chinese and North Korean Red forces delivered two new counter-blows in heavy fighting against two South Korean divisions and an American regiment.

Bone of contention in this battle was a vital 30-mile west to east highway between Kunuri and Pyotai Tokchon. It is the only major lateral road within a 40-mile-wide belt linking the two coastal areas across North Korea's narrow "neck."

Far behind the lines, sizeable Red guerrilla bands stepped up attacks on UN rear bases and supply arteries. American intelligence officers were checking reports that two North Korean divisions were operating along the 35th Parallel, 110 miles south of the active fighting front.

In addition to the regular and guerrilla Red troops, "General Winter" was assuming an increasing role as an adversary of the UN forces.

A spokesman for the U. S. Eighth Army which operates in the north-west and central sectors said Friday he had been informed that Arctic temperatures as low as 22 below zero were hampering the

HERE AND THERE IN BUCKS COUNTY TOWNS

Activities of Interest To All In The Various Communities

GLEANED BY SCRIBES

Dr. J. Edward Smith, Central Bucks Junior-Senior high school superintendent, spoke at a meeting of the Buckingham P.T.A., in Buckingham, Tuesday, asserting that a P.T.A. is not a "needing group," he said, "If your P.T.A. is dominated by parents it is not a parent-teacher association nor is it one if dominated by the teachers."

Dr. Smith, in speaking to approximately 75 people, emphasized that the goal of the P.T.A. must be to develop understanding and the working together of parents and teachers to serve the boys and girls in school. The well known Doylestown educator said the one aim of education is to place all children in some phase of life and that the schools are the cultural centers. "Secondary education is for all youth that are normal," Dr. Smith said. He explained the new methods, new purposes, aims and operation of the school.

Mrs. William Cooper, president, was in charge.

30 members and guests of Quakertown Women's Club met at the home of Mrs. William Muehlhauser, Quakertown, Tuesday afternoon. Miss Dorothy Edwards, assistant librarian of Allentown Free Library, gave a number of book reviews. The program was in charge of the literature committee, of which Miss

EDUCATION MAY BE SALVATION FROM BOMB

So Colonel A. M. Heritage Informs Kiwanians At Langhorne

"EDUCATE YOURSELF"

LANGHORNE, Nov. 17.—When Colonel Arthur M. Heritage, deputy county civil defense coordinator, appeared before members of Bucks County Lincoln Highway Kiwanis Club, Tuesday evening, in Soby Post home, here, he was introduced by the president, W. Spencer Erwin.

Col. Heritage said in part in regard to defense of civilians in Bucks County:

"I am sure the nine county Regional Defense Council plan will be worked out fairly and justly regardless of whether we in Bucks County are bombed out or a bombing takes place in any one of the other eight counties."

"Should a bomb be exploded anywhere in the Philadelphia metropolitan area, all nine counties, divided by the Delaware River, would be materially affected. Therefore, insofar as we here in Bucks County are concerned, Civil Defense is everybody's business and no one of us would be immune from the effects of such a disaster."

"It is only through education that thousands of lives, which otherwise would be lost, can be saved in case of atomic disaster."

"So please try to educate yourself and the members of your family, now, also lend a helping hand to your neighbors."

Trio of Cars Damaged At Brook and Wood Sts.

Expansion Plan for Cornwells Heights Firm is Advancing

NEW OFFICE NEXT

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Nov. 17.—Last spring, Schutte & Koerting Co. embarked on a plan of expansion and co-ordination of facilities at its factory, on State road, which will result in a greatly increased manufacturing area. This includes a new office building, rehabilitation of utilities, parking areas and landscaping.

The first completed unit is the new addition to its manufacturing building and required utilities, all of which are now in operation.

As the next step in the program, a new office building is now under construction. Upon its completion, all company activities including executive offices, engineering and general office personnel, which are now in Philadelphia, will be located at the local plant, according to information made public by Roland Black, general superintendent of the company.

The new office building is of modern functional design and has been carefully planned to properly integrate the various components of a modern manufacturing organization, it is stated.

Further information reveals the structure will be two stories in height, 178 feet long and 62 feet deep with 22,000 square feet of floor space. It will face State road and be joined to the present factory buildings by a connecting corridor. The building will be completely protected by sprinklers and its fireproof construction system calls for a steel frame, brick and cement block spandrel walls and partitions, all set on reinforced concrete foundations. The second floor and roof are supported by steel bar joists with reinforced precast plank decking, and a reinforced concrete slab on fill, will compose the first floor.

All office areas will be enclosed with continuous steel sash, affording the ultimate in daylight and ventilation. Control of daylight will be accomplished by use of venetian blinds, which are included as a part of the basic design. Asphalt tile will cover the floors of the offices.

NEEDLEWORK GUILD LISTS 1492 GARMENTS

Mrs. Catherine Stead, Co. Probation Officer, Speaks Here

ANNUAL INGATHERING

That young wards of Bucks County, and those children placed in the care of the county temporarily, are fortunate in the type of care they receive under such setup, was the conclusion arrived at by members of Bristol Branch of the Needlework Guild after they heard a Bucks Co. probation officer, Mrs. Catherine Stead, speak here yesterday.

Mrs. Stead, who appeared at the annual meeting and ingathering of the guild in the community house, Dorrance street, told of the replacing of rags in many instances by Needlework Guild or other garments; the thorough physical examinations and immunization "shots" given when children are turned over to the probation officers for care or placement; the choice of either the foster home best suited to the case, or the assignment to an institution that caters to ailments with which the child is afflicted.

The manner in which the children accept the new clothing, much of which has arrived in Needlework Guild bags or boxes, was told of. "My, how proud they are!" she exclaimed. Mrs. Stead was introduced by Mrs. Walter W. Pitonka, president of the guild here.

The guest informed that last year 165 cases involving over 200 children were before the court, and to date this year, 138 cases have included 215 girls and boys. "The most appalling thing is the manner in which some parents will desert their children," continued Mrs. Stead, as she told of a mother de-

2 TRUCKS INVOLVED

Robert Leonhauser, 23, of Langhorne, Hurt When En Route to Ship

Toll in highway traffic accidents investigated by state police of Langhorne barracks during the past 48 hours lists six as injured, and property damage of a few thousand dollars.

There were four hurt in a collision of two trucks at the intersection of the super highway and Hulmeville avenue, Langhorne, yesterday mid-morning. Other crashes occurred on the Lincoln highway in Falls township, and on route 132 in Bensalem township.

The injured in the Langhorne accident:

The fire occurred at 6:40, apparently from an oil stove. In addition to the trailer being damaged, a small amount of furniture was destroyed.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan
(Distributed by International News Service)

I forgot what prize the White House offered for a name for the Second World War but "police action" will never win a refrigerator as the Korean campaign tag.

When you get into the sixth month of a shooting contest and no end in sight this is "police action" like Guadalcanal was a constables' outing.

Contrasting views are "we are fighting the cause of freedom and democracy" and "we were suckered into a gang fight too far from our own pile of rocks and the gang is bigger than we are."

In either case the fight goes on.

Many persons prefer the idealistic view but they are still handing new soldiers non-idealistic guns loaded with realistic ammunition.

"United Nations police action" sounded splendid on paper . . . but that's where the United Nations support is too.

Less than 10 per cent of the nations which voted action have taken any but we'd be happy for them to join at their convenience . . . say next year or the following year.

BILLIONS IN CLAIMS

The United States Supreme Court has agreed to rule on an Indian land-claims case which, according to the Department of Justice, could result in other similar cases involving a total of $14,000,000,000. The figure is correct. All those thoughts belong there. The amount is 14 billions of dollars, not millions.

This particular case—the one the Supreme Court will review—is of no great importance all by itself. It has to do with 2,772,580 acres of land taken by the United States from the Tillamook and other Oregon Indians in 1855. The United States Court of Claims has decided that the Indians are entitled to $1.20 an acre for this land plus interest from 1855. This adds up to $17,384,516—a mere bagatelle.

But the Justice Department says that 72 other claims have been filed under another act of Congress. These new claims total upwards of $8,300,000,000 in principal and interest. Since another 100 contracts between Indian tribes and attorneys for suits under the statute have been approved by the Interior Department, the estimate of $14,000,000,000 may not be far wrong.

What is the government going to do about raising these billions, in the event that the Supreme Court rules in favor of the Indian tribes? Especially now, when the need to increase the budget to meet defense costs is pushing the nation faster and faster to the precipice of uncontrolled inflation? And what will the Indians do with all this money, should they get it?

It would be simpler to do what some pessimists have suggested would be a good idea—just give the country back to the Indians and let them run it.

A HARRISON IN CONGRESS

Senator Taft was not the only descendant of a President of the United States elected to Congress in the recent election. William Henry Harrison, grandson of President Benjamin Harrison—who was a grandson of President William Henry Harrison—"Old Tippecanoe"—was elected to the House of Representatives as Wyoming's lone member. He was a member of the Wyoming legislature for a number of terms, and before moving to Wyoming served in the Indiana legislature.

The Adamsons are the only other American family which has produced two presidents. John Quincy Adams is generally credited with having been an able President. His father, John Adams, ranks as superior to most, in spite of his handicap of being the contemporary of Washington and Jefferson, who overshadowed almost all others of their day.

William Henry Harrison lived for only a month after his inauguration. His grandson, Benjamin Harrison, has been described as the ablest lawyer who ever became President.

Politicians who proclaim their concern for the underprivileged one third are able only to tax them and inflate their dollar.

Education May Be Salvation From Bomb

on studies made of atomic bomb destruction, an explosion 2000 feet in the air would destroy about everything exposed within a half-mile radius of ground zero.
"As the distance increases the destructive value of the bomb decreases and beyond a couple of miles its value lessens materially."
"Atom bombs produce their devastation in three ways, namely: by blast, by burns, and by radioactivity. Injury by blast is caused chiefly from loosened and broken objects such as buildings or building materials tumbled down. Injury by burns is caused chiefly from heat and light. Injury by radioactivity is caused by the bomb's rays and particles to which the body is exposed. Since radioactivity seems to be less understood by most of us than blast or flash and heat burns,

WILL DWELL A BIT LONGER ON THIS PHASE OF THE ATOM BOMB DESTRUCTION VALUE.

"Conventional bombs and atom bombs have pretty much the same devastating effects other than for radioactivity."
"There are two kinds of radioactivity, first and by far the most important, resulting from bombs burst in the air, rays and explosion, thrown off at the time of explosion, called 'initial radioactivity' or 'initial nuclear radiation.' These rays and particles occur at the instant of detonation and last about a minute. The second kind of radioactivity is known as 'Residual Nuclear Radiation,' or 'Lingering Radioactivity,' which remains for, from a few minutes to weeks or months depending on the kind of material, technically called fission products. This material consists of countless billions of split atom ashes. They are totally invisible and contaminate everything with which they come in contact. As atom bombs, burst high in the air, do the greatest damage to property, and by their great heat cause practically all of the fission products to be carried upward where they are dissipated, the residual nuclear radiation is not to be feared after the first minute and a half following a high level explosion."

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.
(Copyright, 1950
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—William Z. Foster, Chairman of the American Communist Party, knows when the news is bad. When the two Puerto Rican Nationalists attempted recently to kill President Truman, Foster ducked like a shot-at-noon, disavowing any Communist connection with the plot.

But escape is not that simple. The assassination plan was spawned by the so-called Nationalist Party in Puerto Rico, and bore the personal fingerprints of Pedro Albizu Campos, head of the island revolutionists. Mr. Foster notwithstanding, U. S. Reds bought him a long time ago, and are now stuck with him.

Note the following letter, published in the magazine "The Communist," back in 1943. The letter is dated July 17 of that year:

"Greetings to Don Pedro Albizu Campos:

"The meeting of the National Committee of the American Communist Party extends its heartfelt fraternal greetings to Brother Campos and wishes him an early recovery from his illness.

"The people of Puerto Rico unanimously demand the right of self-determination, which is one of the aims of this people's war. This they have demonstrated through the unanimous vote in the legislature and in the broad people's congress recently held in Puerto Rico.

"Through Brothers Campos and Juan Antonio Corretjer, the leaders of the Nationalist Party, we pledge our full support to the Nationalist Party and complete unification of all people of Puerto Rico and their various parties around the supreme task of achieving full nationhood. We will fulfill our pledge by rallying the people's party and the labor movement in our country to Puerto Rico independence as a necessary precondition to correct relations with all Latin America, and as an acid test to the Atlantic Charter.

"Puerto Rico must and will be free."

Signed: William Z. Foster, Chairman of the Communist Party, and Earl Browder, general secretary.

One of the Puerto Ricans involved in the Blair House shooting was slain. In his pocket Secret Service agents found two handwritten notes from Campos. One wished him well on his mission.

Oscar Collazo, who survived and has been indicted for the slaying of a White House policeman, is the Nationalist lieutenant for Campos in the U. S. He was, in fact, named by Campos to be observer at the United Nations for the Nationalist Party of Puerto Rico.

Campos and Browder got to be buddies in the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta in 1939. Browder was there on a passport fraud conviction. Campos for inciting a revolution. Browder was pardoned by the New Dealers, who needed the Communist vote. Campos was finally released in 1943 after considerable political pressure. He had Congressman Vito Marcantonio and Browder as legal advisers during his fight for freedom. When he got out he went to New York and, in violation of his parole, established a headquarters and continued organizing with the Communists for the Puerto Rican revolution.

Campos has an array of distinctions. He is a Harvard graduate, a former lieutenant in the American Army and the only American citizen allowed to maintain a private army anywhere in the U. S. or its possessions.

The Campos army is no underground affair. It drills in the open, goes on field exercises and openly carries arms and ammunition. It attempted to overthrow the Puerto Rican government five days before the attempt on President Truman's life. This was not the first time Campos resorted to violence. On the contrary, he is responsible for so many slayings and riots that authorities have quit counting. No one, however, has come up with an explanation of how he is permitted to run loose. The island has self-government but is bossed by the Department of Interior. Officials there or here could have ordered him jailed on countless occasions. It was just a question of selecting the rap.

In 1949 Campos started getting tougher with U. S. authorities. He said at a rabble-rousing rally that "We have arrived at the crucial year of our history," and led his Communist-bossed Nationalist gunmen on another riot through the streets of San Juan. On a number of other occasions he has incited his followers to storm the Puerto Rican legislature. Each time his gunmen went into action. He has, of course, continually instructed the Nationalists to arm themselves with pistols and knives. Sometimes he went so far as to make the appeals over Puerto Rican radio stations, so there was no secret about what he was up to. He has steadily praised Russia and berated the U. S.

Communists, in publicly ducking any connection with the two Nationalists who took potshots at the President's guards, nevertheless wasted little time in sending reinforcements to Campos. The Daily Worker immediately dispatched a propagandist, and several more followed later. All are now writing Soviet prose about Puerto Rican freedom. What they really mean is freedom for the Nationalist Party to take over the government.

Campos has been hauled off to jail, but there is considerable doubt about keep him there long. The Communists will do what they can to get him out. For one reason or another this kind of support always seems effective. At any rate, it has been in his previous jams and there is no reason to get soft-headed and assume it won't be this time.

Americans Near Point 20 Miles Below Manchuria

U. S. Army's Seventh Division in northeast Korea.

This Division, belonging to the 10th Corps which has the responsibility for the northeast front, sent its 17th Regiment five miles forward Thursday despite the bitter cold and enemy resistance.

By Friday morning the 17th Regiment was reported on the immediate southern approaches to the road center of Kapsan, only 20 air miles south of the nearest point on Manchuria's curling Yalu river boundary.

The Americans were advancing along the valley of the south-to-north Hochen river which flows past Kapsan on the west and empties into the Yalu near the border town of Hyusanjin.

An advance to Hyusanjin would throw a block across the base of Korea's entire northeast corner which adjoins both southeast Manchuria and southwest Soviet Siberia.

Warm clothing was being rushed in increasing quantities to the front-line UN troops to help combat the severe cold. Officers in charge of logistics at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters said winter gear had reached Korea well ahead of the onset of the cold wave.

They said broken rail bridges and enemy-mined seaports had put most of the load on the airlift which had only limited fields on which to land with the winter clothing. In addition, the front-line troops outran their supply lines.

The officers said this situation has been just about corrected.

A British spokesman said 3,000 pounds of heavy woolen pullovers have been flown to the British Commonwealth 27th Brigade in the northwest sector.

He said these garments will help keep the British Commonwealth troops warm until they receive American winter gear as soon as the U. S. 24th Division gets its issue of warm clothing.

The British Commonwealth units were advancing alongside the U. S.

24th Division on the western end of the line after occupying the bomb and shell blasted junction strongpoint of Pakchon, 55 miles below the Manchurian border.

One Addition Now Completed for S-K

while terrazzo flooring has been selected for the main entrance lobby and rest rooms. The wall surface of the entrance lobby, board of directors room and private offices will be of paneled oak, while those in the general offices will be cement block painted. All rest rooms will have tile wainscoting. Ceiling areas will be of fireproof acoustic tile supported by a metal suspension system.

The lighting is generally fluorescent troffers mounted flush with the ceiling structure. Great care has been taken in the integration of daylight and artificial light to afford the office personnel a constant and uniformly distributed light consistent at all times. The building heating systems combine steam unit heaters and circulating hot water baseboard heaters and will be controlled by numerous thermostats on the exterior walls and the interior of the structure, assuring constant temperature controlled draft-free working spaces. Heavy roof insulation and exhaust fans assure the occupants comfortable working conditions during the summer months.

Modern under-floor and in-wall duct systems for transmission of telephone, electric outlet and inter-communication lines will be contained in the structure. A pneumatic tube system for order transmission between factory work centers and office administration has been made a part of the project, to add the final touch in the design of a modern efficient, function-office and factory unit. The final plans call for fencing, added parking areas and general landscaping of the State road frontage.

The first floor will contain a main entrance and spacious lobby, board of directors room, three executive offices, large general office, storage and utility room and men and women's locker and rest rooms. A stairway at each end of the building will lead to the second floor, which will contain two private offices, reproduction rooms, one large room for engineering and drafting, locker and lavatory rooms for men and women.

Horace W. Castor, R. A., Philadelphia is the architect and George K. Heebner, Inc., of the same city, is the general contractor.

After the first of January, the executives and office personnel will take up duties in the new office building.

Morrisville To Meet Neshaminy Eleven

LANGHORNE, Nov. 17—Morrisville high and Neshaminy high will clash tonight on Playwick field in a Lower Bucks County League tilt. The game will begin at 8 o'clock.

Morrisville is out of the running for the Lower Bucks crown, while Neshaminy still clings to its hopes if it can beat both Morrisville and Bensalem. It plays the latter team on Thanksgiving Day morning.

Should Morrisville beat Neshaminy and the latter team beat Bensalem, then Bristol has hopes of finishing in a tie for first if it can win over the Bulldogs in their Turkey Day classic.

Turkey Demand High; Thanksgiving Nears

SOLEBURY, Nov. 17—With Thanksgiving fast approaching, demand for turkeys at the Rice Brothers Auction here this week was high.

One hundred birds were disposed of, bidding being keen. The home-grown birds were said to be of fine quality.

Approximately 1000 persons at the sale saw the hens go under the hammer for 48½ to 51 cents a pound, and the toms for 35 to 42 cents a pound. The poultry sales, which were much larger than usual, amounted to $2,738.05. Proceeds of the entire sale were $4,888.12. The sale of the livestock amounted to $1,648.23.

Prices received for the livestock were as follows: three bulls, $77 to $141; fifteen calves, $10.50 to $17.50 each and 22 to 29 cents a pound; twenty-seven goats, $4.25 to $20, and eleven sheep, $9.25 to $25. Little interest was shown in the disposal of hogs. One hundred and twenty-six head were offered, and 54 were sold.

Bill and Lillian Smith had wanted their own home for years! Then Lillian found it.

But how did fire insurance help them buy it? Without fire insurance on the house Bill couldn't have borrowed the money to buy it.

But even before the house was a blueprint, fire insurance helped make possible the entire development. Without its protection the builder could not have financed his own operations.

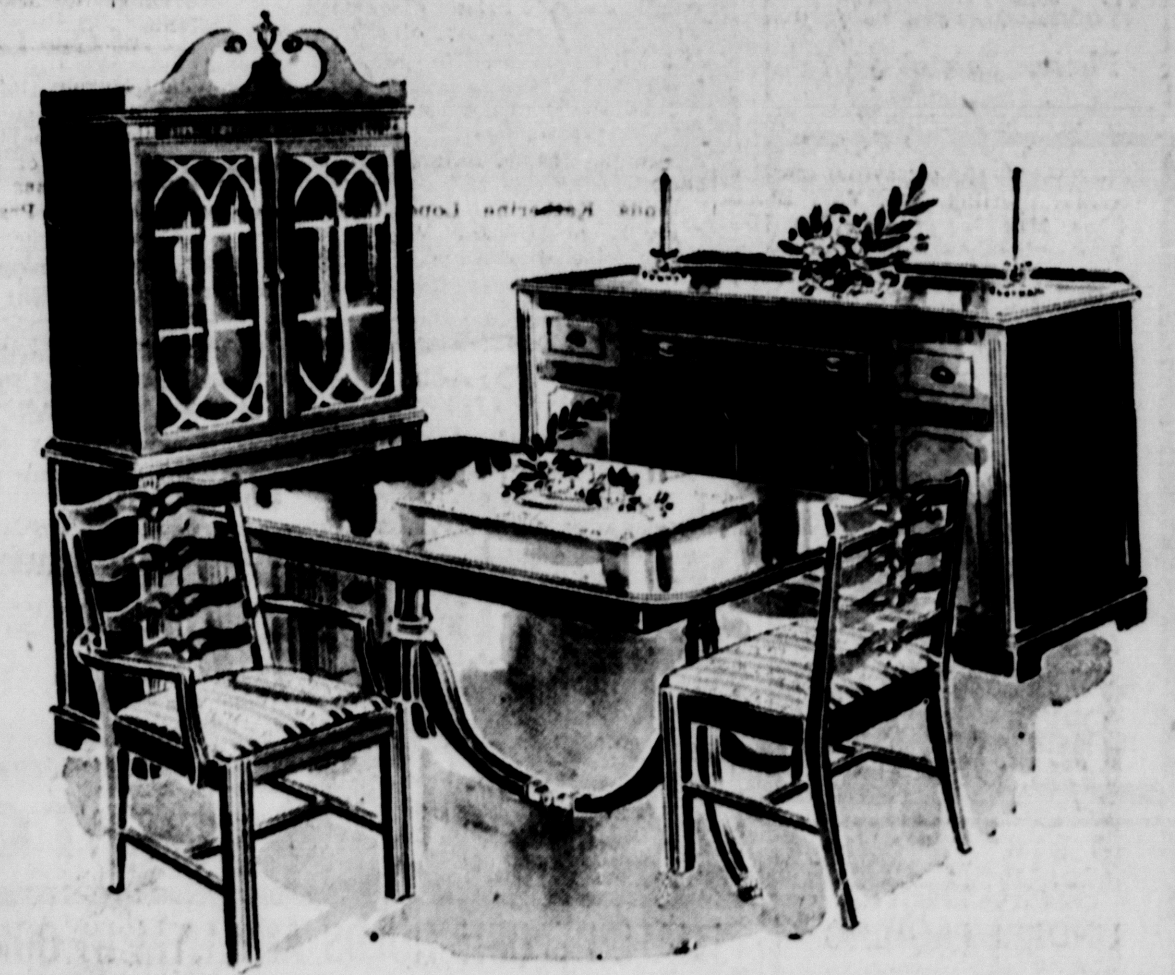

That's how fire insurance helps you acquire a home with conveniences that are possible today only in a country where business freedom is constantly making America a better place to live in.

Your fire insurance rate per $100 protection is as much as 30% lower today than it was 30 years ago. Write for booklet giving the facts and telling other advantages of stock company fire insurance.

Built for tough service — all ways! CHEVROLET TRUCKS with Chevrolet's Hypoid Rear Axle

Single-Unit Housing

Here's maximum strength . . . longer trouble-free service! Chevrolet rear axle housings are formed into tubular steel beams; no bolts or rivets to work loose.

Full-Size Inspection plates

Easy-to-remove, one-piece inspection plate saves time and labor . . . provides full view of rear axle gears when removed.

Splined Axle-to-Hub connection

Splines—not bolts—deliver the driving power evenly—without strain—on all heavy-duty models. Loose axle shaft bolts and costly grease leaks are eliminated.

Straddle-Mounted Pinion

Gears last longer . . . pinion gear is supported at each end by ball bearings to keep it in mesh. Adjustable thrust pad prevents distortion of ring gear when starting heavy-duty trucks with heavy loads.

4-Pinion Differential

Load and shock of heavy loads are distributed over four pinions instead of two in all Chevrolet medium- and heavy-duty trucks—for longer axle life and greater strength.

Chevrolet trucks are engineered to "take it" on the roughest, the toughest jobs. The single-unit design housing and splined axle-to-hub connection of Chevrolet's hypoid heavy-duty rear axle mean strength and stamina found in no other truck rear axle in Chevrolet's class. Combine that with other outstanding Chevrolet features . . . powerful Valve-in-Head engines, Synchro-Mesh transmissions, channel-type frames with alligator-jaw cross members! Here is the truck that can handle tough jobs. . . America's most popular truck. Come in and see these great Chevrolet trucks today.

Sorting a family of eight children last week. In another case recently, three had been deserted by both their parents. "They are all fine children, and we feel we will readily adapt ourselves to good homes. We who have worked among city children for a long time find such a difference between them and the children here in Bucks County. Here they are more genteel, and there is a difference in their manner of speech."

Mrs. Stead told that she had been busy engaged the day previous counting Guild garments received at her office. "Then next comes the Christmas giving. Each child under our care will receive a package which will contain the equivalent of what he would receive in his own home under normal conditions." Guild clothing (all of which are new items) are used, according to the speaker, mainly for the children who arrive with practically nothing in the way of garments.

How foster homes are secured throughout the county for the girls and boys from broken homes; the assigning of others to institutions for the mentally defective; assignment of the blind, epileptic and mongoloids was mentioned. "Sleigh-ton Farms is doing a wonderful work for the girls, and I don't know of any girl but who has felt the benefit by assignment to Sleigh-ton Farms." Five children were placed for adoption last year through her office, Mrs. Stead informed, adding that she would like to know of more fine foster homes in the county. "We have many where the children are treated like one of the family."

The amount spent by the county last year for board for children in foster homes was listed at $32,000; clothing, $14,000; and medical care, $2500. "The latter figure shows our children must be in pretty good health, for the figure required for medical care was small," she commented. The loving care lavished at the detention home in Doylestown, to which all children are first assigned, was mentioned. "We have the most understanding women in charge there, and the children all love her." That foster homes throughout the county are inspected at least once a month was another point brought out. "We insist on Christian homes," continued Mrs. Stead.

One great clothing demand, she told the groups of women who sew and buy garments, is dungarees and polo shirts. "We never seem to have enough."

Listed on the honor roll (those procuring at least 100 garments) are: Catholic Daughters of America, 167; Mrs. Margaret Siddons, 132; Edgely sewing group, 128; Miss Frances Chambers, 127; Mrs. L. J. Bevan (memorial table), 110; Mrs. Henry E. Ancker, 109.

The guild exceeded last year's total of garments by 191, the total this year being 1,492.

A moment of silence was observed in tribute to Miss Jennie Chambers who headed the honor roll last year.

The invocation by the Rev. Andrew G. Solla, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Our Saviour, was followed by minutes by Mrs. Paul V. Forster, and treasurer's report by Mrs. Harold Crooker.

Tea and cup cakes were served by Miss Frances H. Landreth and Mrs. Archibald Morris.

The garments will be used for needy in Bristol and for private and institutional cases in nearby cities and towns. They included: dresses, afghans, sweaters, layettes, stockings, underwear, shirts, caps night-dresses, shoes, gloves, towels, wash cloths, etc.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

By JOE ELBERSON

Ends tomorrow . . . bear season, which opened on Monday of this week, closes tomorrow. Although no complete figures on the 1950 kill will be available for some time, it is expected that this year's take will exceed the 411 bears bagged last year in the Commonwealth.

Turkey shoot . . . this Sunday, November 19th, over the traps of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association, west of Bath Road at Silver Lake, a turkey shoot will be conducted by the Association. One bird will be awarded the winner of each 5-man squad, and turkeys will also be awarded to winners of deadmark events. Squads will be classified so that an "A" shooter will not be competing in the same squad as a shooter who normally breaks 15 or 16 out of 25. Shells will be available, and all shooters are invited to participate in the program which will get underway at noon.

Better than usual . . . small game has increased in numbers this year over the past several years in this area, according to all reports coming to my attention. As a matter of record, the picture has brightened generally in most sections of the state.

In capsule form, here are early season hunting results as gathered from all sections of the Commonwealth: The conduct of hunters was generally improved, but there was still an unreasonable number of cases of shooting in safety zones—within 150 yards of occupied buildings. The number of cottontails taken was about the same as last year, except for an increase in the northeast and a decrease in the southwest. More ring-necked pheasants were killed than in 1949, except in the southeast. There were fewer squirrels taken in the southwest, more in the northeast, with other sections about as last year. The grouse bag increased generally in the eastern counties, where results improved considerably. Quail were taken about as last year, although more showed up in the northeastern counties. Raccoons, trapped and shot, were bagged in increased numbers, except in the southeast. Duck and geese returns were not as good as for the same period last year.

According to unofficial hunter casualty reports there was one fatal shooting and about 150 non-fatal cases during the Wednesday-Saturday first week of season.

Rifle instruction . . . beginning on Tuesday, December 5, junior members of the Bristol YMCA who are interested in rifle shooting will be gathered for the first in a series of weekly meetings for instruction under the competent direction of members of the Rifle & Pistol Section of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association. The instruction period will run from 7 to 9 o'clock each Tuesday evening, with shooting for members of the Association after 9 on the indoor range at the YMCA which was built last year by the local club. The initial session, and possibly one or more after that, will be devoted almost entirely to the safe handling of firearms, and it is of utmost importance that all candidates be on hand for this instruction.

About trapping . . . largely without the noise and fanfare that accompanied the opening of the small game season, Pennsylvania trappers shouldered their pack baskets and quietly set out November 6 to take muskrats and others. The season on these furbearers ends this year at noon on December 16. This, of course, means little or no activity on the part of trappers locally. Trappers are reminded that the muskrat season is closed during the present license period. They are requested, in the interest of their future sport and income, to avoid making sets where rats commonly travel. Muskrats accidentally caught in traps this year should be turned over to the nearest game protector.

Another turkey shoot . . . this Sunday, also, the Newportville Rod & Gun Club will conduct a turkey shoot. Turkeys will be awarded for dead mark, high gun, Lewis Class matches, and other events.

All shooters are invited to take part in the program which gets underway at noon at the clubhouse, Haunted Lane, Edgington.

Old age . . . the oldest hand ever returned to the Fish & Wildlife Service, one which had been worn by a female pintail since January 29, 1934, was recently reported. The duck was banded by the Pintail Gun Club, Irvington, California in 1934. It was shot at Newark, California, approximately five miles from where it was banded, on October 21, 1949.

League Games End In 4-Way Deadlock

The Lower Bucks County Girls' Hockey League ended in a four-way deadlock for first place as the result of the games played yesterday in which Bensalem beat New Hope and Council Rock shut out Pennsbury, 1-0. The other game played between Bristol and Southampton did not have any bearing on the league standing.

Unofficial tabulations show that

Bensalem, Council Rock, Neshaminy, and New Hope had eight points each in the final standing.

Miss Barbara Yerkes, Bristol, president of the league, has called a meeting for this afternoon at the Council Rock school to decide what steps will be taken to break the tie.

Bensalem upset New Hope, 1-0, at Cornwells Heights. Mary Ann Cobleigh made the only goal of the fracas in the second half when she scored from scrimmage near the striking circle.
